Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-13, drawn to a test kit for detecting endotoxin, classified in class 435, subclass 975.
- II. Claims 14-15, drawn to a method for detecting endotoxin, classified in class 435, subclass 31.
- III. Claim 17, drawn to a method of detecting endotoxin with two containers, classified in class 435, subclass 31.
- IV. Claim 18, drawn to a kit for detecting endotoxin where the sensitivity can vary based on the time of incubation, classified in class 435, subclass 975.

The inventions are independent or distinct, each from the other because:

Inventions I, IV and II, III are related as process and apparatus for its practice.

The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another and materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the methods could be practiced by hand without the kits.

Art Unit: 1655

Inventions I and IV are directed to related kits for detecting endotoxin. The related inventions are distinct if the inventions as claimed do not overlap in scope, i.e., are mutually exclusive; the inventions as claimed are not obvious variants; and the inventions as claimed are either not capable of use together or can have a materially different design, mode of operation, function, or effect. See MPEP § 806.05(j). In the instant case, Group IV is a kit where the sensitivity can vary based on the time of incubation and Group I is a kit for the same function without the time limitation of Group IV.

Inventions II and III are directed to related methods of detecting endotoxin. The related inventions are distinct if the inventions as claimed do not overlap in scope, i.e., are mutually exclusive; the inventions as claimed are not obvious variants; and the inventions as claimed are either not capable of use together or can have a materially different design, mode of operation, function, or effect. See MPEP § 806.05(j). In the instant case, Group III is based on using two containers, such limitation is not found in the claims of Group II.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
